In football, teams begin each play with a quick huddle to communicate the team plan, team players’ responsibilities, and any adjustments they need to make to be more successful. The Dentrix Daily Huddle Report helps your office team do that the same thing.

“The morning huddle is the best way a team can feel informed, focused, and productive. If you want to deliver the very best service and care to your patients in the most efficient manner, then you and your team have to plan for the day,” says Amy Morgan, CEO of the Pride Institute. “The most effective teams not only meet at the beginning of the day, but collaborate and make a specific checklist that answers all the key questions and involves everyone. There is no better solution to organizing the chaos and confusion.”

To help dental offices work together more effectively, Henry Schein Practice Solutions recently released the Daily Huddle Report in Dentrix G4 Productivity Pack 8. The Daily Huddle Report gives practices daily progress reports on monthly goals, helps team members use their time more effectively, makes it easy to access information about patients coming in for appointments today, and most importantly, helps practices improve patient care and overall business operations.

DAILY PROGRESS REPORTS

Henry Schein Practice Solutions surveyed customers across the U.S. about their daily huddle routines. The survey results showed that while 82 percent of Dentrix practices hold regular huddles, over 40 percent of practices have difficulty holding huddles every morning because they lack the time and/or need to gather too much information to make daily huddle meetings effective.

Cathy Jameson, Founder and CEO of Jameson Management Consulting, says, “Good meetings are a must for any business—including a dental business.” Dentrix created the Daily Huddle Report to make it easy for practices to hold daily huddles and see how they did yesterday, how they are tracking for today, and what the remainder of the month looks like.
The Daily Huddle Report gives the dental team a daily snapshot of how they did yesterday for production, collections, case acceptance, new patients, and scheduling (Figure 1). During the daily huddle, the team can use this information to discuss what wins they had yesterday and what they may want to do today to ensure they meet their daily goals. It also shows what they have scheduled for today and for the remainder of the month so they can see how they are tracking towards their monthly goals.

By having this information readily available, practices can make adjustments when necessary to meet their monthly goals instead of just waiting until the end of the month to see their final numbers. They can see what they need to do today to ensure their present and future is as productive and profitable as possible.

MORE EFFECTIVE USE OF TIME

Before the Dentrix Daily Huddle was released, team members had to manually research information about upcoming patient visits. For example, team members needed to find out if the patients’ lab cases had been received, if they had outstanding balances, if they had any unscheduled treatment plans, if they were overdue for continuing care appointments, or if they required pre-meds. Some offices even researched other family members to find out if they were overdue for continuing care or if they had outstanding unscheduled treatment.

Sometimes practices have multiple team members—including financial coordinators, scheduling coordinators, hygienists, assistants, and office managers—who research the same patient’s chart to gather pertinent information about that patient in order to offer them excellent patient care. The amount of time these practices spend gathering that information is astounding. The Dentrix Daily Huddle Report does all of this for the practice, freeing up team members’ time while still allowing them to be well informed and prepared to provide excellent care (Figure 2).

IMPROVED PATIENT CARE

The Daily Huddle Report helps practices provide excellent patient care by informing each team member about relevant patient information. The report can be customized to show the specific, relevant information about each team member’s interactions with a patient (Figure 3).

For example, an assistant or hygienist would want to see if the patient has medical alerts or was referred to another provider at a previous appointment, and the financial or schedule coordinator... would want to see if the patient has a balance or is eligible for insurance benefits. By using the Daily Huddle Report and customizing it to the practice’s unique needs, team members can improve the overall flow of information and optimize patient care.

CONCLUSION
As the old saying goes, “If you fail to plan, you plan to fail.” The power of the Dentrix Daily Huddle Report is that it enables practices to plan their days even better and maximize opportunities by placing valuable patient information at their fingertips. Dental team members are busy running a business and providing excellent patient care. The Dentrix Daily Huddle helps practices better achieve both of these tasks—and saves them time—by making all of this valuable information available with a few mouse clicks.

Gary Kadi, Founder and CEO of Next Level Practice, says, “Morning huddles are the keystone of a successful new model practice. Old model practices see morning huddles as monotonous and an intrusion on their day (and their sleep). New model team members understand that investing 15 minutes with the key business indicators is the difference between an unproductive, uneventful day and a fired-up, fulfilling day where everyone goes home winning—the patient, the team, and the doctor.”

Use the Daily Huddle Report to save time, improve business operations, and make the most of your day, all while providing superior patient care. Let the Daily Huddle Report help you meet your daily, monthly, and yearly goals. DM
